

Wellesley College News

XLVII

2 311

WELLESLEY, MASS., FEBRUARY 2, 1939

No. 16

SKI THOUGHTS MUDDLE UP THE MID-YEAR MIND

Inns to Harbor Gay New England Skiers

Somewhere up in the northlands of Vermont, New Hampshire, or Canada, there is a cozy little inn, waiting for you to "check in" and enjoy in abundance the typical days of snow sports activities. The inn itself is friendly and warm, offering good food, steam-heated rooms, snug and informal lobbies with open fire-places, lots of entertainment, and reasonable rates.

The ski runs, open slopes, and snow-bound trails provide plenty of recreation in the morning hours for both novice and expert. Those who are attempting the noble art of skiing for the first time will find that there is often a competent instructor who is willing to lend a helping hand. After an exciting morning of spills and thrills, lunch tastes better than manna, and everyone is ready for more punishment!

The ski tows become man's best friend in this country, and many resorts provide well-kept skating rinks, where enticing music and flashing blades capture the eye as well as the heart of beginner and champion. Supper followed by cozy chats around a warming fire, or an informal dance, inspire as much gaiety and entertainment in the evening as the activities have throughout the day.

Special ski trains are available every week-end, and the price of transportation is usually under ten dollars, round trip. Room and board may be obtained at almost any price, starting at about two dollars a day. If the necessary equipment for a winter sports outfit is already at hand, just grab your skis and jump on the next "special." If not, $25 and a little shopping will secure skis, poles, trousers, a wind-breaker, and everything that is necessary. Whether traveling with a group or alone, you will find lots of new friends waiting to be discovered in an alluring and wholesome atmosphere.

TO SKIERS

By Suzanne Van Dyke '41

1. Don't leave skis outside cabin, no matter how well they're fixed. A two foot snow storm is all you need to cover them up. Unsnowing the whole side of a house is very tiresome and unnecessary. Bring your skis in at night.

2. Don't leave ski wax in your trousers, and worse yet, don't put the self same trousers on the stove.

3. Be sure you have dry wood to stoke your fire. You don't have to pace the floor all night and finally resign yourself to a sleep in 15 degree weather, indoors and out.

4. In some places in Switzerland, the top end of a ski trip will be on some mountain, where the coffee from a thermos bottle freezes 'twixt the cup and lip.

Skier Mentions Tyrol, Switzerland, Vermont

By Barbara Walling

Suzanne Van Dyke '41 would never have admitted to an inquisitive reporter that she won the college tournament as well as the skiing events, but the friends who surrounded her in 401 Clafin insisted upon telling of her prowess. The facts that her school years were spent in Switzerland and that her home is in Forest Hills, New York may have something to do with her abilities. According to Sue, it is certainly not her heredity. "I come from a long line of land-owners in Holland, where it's so flat you'd have to use the roofs to ski!" she said.

Sue was only seven when she went to school in Switzerland. Almost every school there has its own skiing instructor. She explained also that for the people who live in hotels, for example, in-

(Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

The Three Bares

The cameraman was a bit puzzled as to whether his composition represented a bevy of fugitives from the ice age or a segment of the 7:40 Club indulging in the worst excesses of early morning ritual. The poverty of costume against the frozen background suggests the privation of prehistoric ages; yet the ecstasy of pain registered upon the faces of the trio directs thought to the 7:40 addicts.

A case could be made out for the theory that Wellesley's 7:40 Club is a chapter of a similar organization which existed before Neolithic man. However, no documentary evidence to that effect has been produced, and it would be an act of extreme cruelty to shake the belief of the membership in the primacy of their organization. Should the group's experiments in pre-breakfast endurance disclose new limits to human resources, the entire body of medical knowledge on the subject will be revolutionized.

Wellesley Wenches Set Ski Styles

From Bagging Bloomers to Babushkas

She jumps out of bed in true Gelandesprung style, climbs into her long, light woolens, dons her plus fours, and whips down to breakfast by means of a schuss. After toast and coffee she piles her notebooks into a rucksack, and is soon herringboning up the hill to the Geology lab. In the midst of long-luffing home for a smoke, before side-stepping to the library, she drops her pencil, and thus momentarily assumes a forlager while picking it up.

If those lucky enough to catch a glimpse of this fanatic in her spare time will see her standing between two chairs and raising her knees up to her chest—toes pointed; moreover, she frequently strengthens her leg muscles by lunging up stairs three and four steps at a time—and all as a preparation for future Stem Telemarks, Stem Jumps, Scissor Christianas, Jerked Christianas, and Slaloms.

Who is this creature? Need you ask? You know her; we all know her... she's the ardently ski-conscious female.

Womanly Wellesley

'Way back in 1895, in the days of leg o' mutton sleeves, tight waists, and long skirts, Wellesley was unequivocally womanly. The undergraduates of the '90's bundled up in ankle length coats and buttoned their collars tightly before trudging out to classes; never, in old Legendas, at least, were they caught off guard. By 1918, with women feeling a little more assertive they pitched in and had real fun, snowshoeing across country in skirts raised four inches above the ankle; skirts were the fashion for skiing too, and short fur jackets buttoned up close to the chin, plus all enveloping fur chapeaux, gave the war-time sports enthusiast a vague resemblance to the rabbit. 1920 was a rare departure, the beginning of the post-war emancipation period, with sledding in cap, thick sweater, and knee-length bloomers to allow for more freedom and fun in sports.

The popularity of skiing as a sport led 1924 Wellesleyites to dress for comfort; they presented a dashing picture in knickers, long wasted sweaters, and flowing scarfs which floated in the breeze. The palmy days of 1929 saw the Wellesley girl blossoming forth in heather coats, corduroy ski

(Continued on Page 5, Col. 1)

Outing Club Offers Lessons in Skating

Instructor at Bouve School Will Give Lessons; Club Plans Skiing Trips

For those who are seeking an opportunity to relax from the strain of examinations, and who would like to become versed in the art of fancy skating, Flora Mariotti, Head of Winter Sports for the Outing Club, announces a series of skating lessons to be given late Monday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons during the examination period. Miss Dorothy Glidden of the Bouve School of Physical Education will be the instructress. If thirty-five girls express an interest in this activity and sign the Outing Club bulletin board this week, the fee for the lessons will be fifty cents.

The Outing Club is hoping to organize a series of skiing trips to various New England Youth Hostels during the month of February. Also of interest to ski enthusiasts is the news that the ski carnival will take place as soon as weather conditions make skiing possible. Watch the Outing Club board for the date of this exciting event!

Faculty Look Ahead To Mid-Winter Sports

By Susan Swartz

"I learned to ski in the Swiss army back in 1915," remarked Dr. Theodore Steiger, answering questions put by your reporter to several sports-minded members of our faculty. Those were the days before skiing became popularized, and the large hotels at St. Moritz were filled with the soldiers whose duty was to guard the passes of the Alps. As a sergeant in the medical corps, Dr. Steiger was pretty free to do as he liked, and was sometimes on skis for two days at a time—"out looking for fellows with broken arms or legs."

Skates Replace Skis

"I suppose I've never skied in this country because it's never seemed quite so attractive," he continued. "You see, the greatest part of skiing for me isn't just the thrill that comes with going down a hill. That's merely a part of the whole pleasure, the pleasure of skiing through the woods, enjoying the mountain scenery, and the companionship of those who are with me." After hesitating a moment, he concluded, "Skating is the thing that interests me now. We have a good opportunity here at Wellesley, and I'm anxious to learn before my bones begin to creak."

"It is almost depressing!" sighed Miss Lilli Burger. "I have not been able to ski or skate here." Last spring Miss Burger sprained her ankle while playing tennis, but she hopes soon to be able to participate in the sports she has always enjoyed at her family's country house in the Bavarian Alps. "My favorite sport is sleighing," she said, "because our whole family can coast down the winding trails on

(Continued on Page 6, Col. 3)

Vacation Train Schedule

Going:

Consult posters at Information Bureau College Post Office

Returning:

New York to Wellesley, Sunday, February 12, 1939

SPECIAL TRAIN (Grand Central Terminal)

Lv. New York3:55 P. M.

New Haven5:40 P. M.

Ar. Wellesley9:05 P. M.

REGULAR TRAIN NO. 58

Lv. Stamford4:55 P. M.

South Norwalk5:04 P. M.

Bridgeport5:24 P. M.

Meriden6:17 P. M.

Berlin6:28 P. M.

Hartford6:45 P. M.

Ar. Wellesley9:16 P. M.

SLEEPING CARS Open G. C. T. 10:00 P. M.

Lv. New York G. C. T.11:50 P. M.

Lv. Stamford12:41 P. M.

Ar. Wellesley (Mon. Feb. 13) 7:20 A. M.

REGULAR TRAIN NO. 56 FROM NEW YORK

Stops Sunday and Monday at Wellesley,

February 12, 13 at 6:34 A. M.

Points West to Wellesley

Train No. 42, special stop at Wellesley

Monday, Feb. 13, 6:04 A. M. Leaves Buffalo

5:00 P. M., service from Rochester, Syracuse,

Utica, Schenectady. Leaves Albany 1:00

A. M. Sleeping car open in Albany Station

10:00 P. M.

THE WINNERS!

TOP: "Wellesley Off Guard." Left, first prize, Helen Tams '39. Right, honorable mention, Bernice Brand '42.

BOTTOM: "Inside Story." Left, first prize, Helen Tams '39. Right, second prize, Eleanor Webster '42.

PHOTOGRAPHY CONTEST

To determine the winners in the NEWS photography contest, the two judges, Elise Strahl '39 and Alice Jantzen '39, carefully considered each picture submitted and chose those which they believed best combined the qualities described below. First of all, each one was judged from the standpoint of interest of the subject matter, and the originality shown in executing the idea. They examined them from a purely technical point of view. In doing this they observed the composition, the handling of light, the selection of details which added and the elimination of those which did not, the clearness of the picture, etc. Having gone over each picture carefully, they decided on those which you will find printed in this issue.

NEWS extends many thanks to those who entered, and hopes that this contest may have inspired more to take advantage of the innumerable good shots to be found on our campus.

Hickory Skis - Ridgeway	$8.98 to $14.50
Maple & Ash-Ridgeway and Ash	$2.98 to $7.50
Poles, Bamboo & Toncan with Hydrocoul Covering, guaranteed not to split	$2.49 to $4.98 pr.
Aluminum Poles	$3.98 pr.
Steel Poles - Blue	$4.98 pr.
Steel Poles - Chromium	$7.75 pr.
Ski Harness	$1.98 to $4.98 set
Ski Boots	$5.39 pr.
Ski Caps	$1.00 to $1.98
Ear Muffs	49c pr
Ski Goggles	59c to 98c
Rent Sleds, Skis and Skates at reasonable prices

P. B. CORKUM
587 Washington St.
Wellesley, Mass.

Sigrid's

WELLESLEY

Luscious pastel wools
Adorable cruise and southern wear

"All type date dresses"

charge accounts opened

40 Central St.

How To Ski
Where To Ski
When To Ski

We have the books that tell you how, where, and when,—or we can get them for you.

(The Whatnot in our hall is displaying Ski books now.)

Hathaway House
Bookshop

SALE
IMPORTED SHETLAND
Jan. 30 - Feb. 4

The Wool Shop
36 CENTRAL STREET
WELLESLEY

College Seniors

Have You Chosen A Career?
College graduates who expect to seek employment in business, will find the Intensive Secretarial Course at the Packard School a practical stepping stone to the security of a good income in the modern business world.
DAY AND EVENING CLASSES
Write or telephone for Catalog.

The Packard School
(Founded 1858)
253 Lexington Ave. (at 35th St.)
NEW YORK CITY
Registered by the Regents of the University of the State of N. York

SKIING AT
MID-SEMESTER
VACATION

Consult
Wellesley College
Travel Bureau

Mon., Feb. 6, 4-6 P. M.
near Personnel Bureau

GET A "PEP-UP" WITH THE SNOW TRAIN

WEEK-END SNOW
TRAINS LEAVE
on Fridays and Saturdays.
There are special Snow
Train rates at the Inn or lodge where you choose to spend the night.

ONE DAY SNOW
TRAINS LEAVE
On Sundays and Holidays
about 8 to 8:30 a. m.
$1.75 to $2.15 round trip.
See daily newspapers on Fridays for schedules.

Pick six friends, or one, or take your hooks — and climb on board the Snow Train. A few hours to read or study — wax your skis — and there you are — no effort, no traffic — ready for a full day of health and fun in the snow. Then hack again, tired but relaxed. More time en route home to read, study or doze. Economical diners right on the Sunday Snow Train.

No doubt about it — if you want to save your money and your nerves — if you want to make the most of your week-ends — the Snow Train's the way to do it! We shall be glad to send you a descriptive booklet. Write us at North Station, Boston.

Travel by BOSTON and MAINE

This Year IN WELLESLEY
SNOW NEWS is good news!

Because we've had so little snow, we find ourselves well stocked in this year's new skiing and skating fashions. Our season is almost over . . . hence these markdowns. But YOUR season is just beginning for February is usually THE snow month! So a word to the wise . . . STOCK UP NOW FOR SNOW FUN AHEAD!

For Campus Skiing!

SKI SUITS

Snow cloth
swiss cord
gobordine
were $13.95 to $22.95
NOW $7.85 to $16.95

ACCESSORIES

milton, swiss cord, gobordine parkas, ski hats, ski pants
were $1.95 to $14.95
NOW $1.25 to $8.95

For Lake Waban!

SKATING SKIRTS
were $7.95 to $12.95
NOW $4.95 to $7.95

SKATING SWEATERS
turtle neck, all wool
WHITE or Tyroleon
were $5.95
NOW $3.95

WINDBREAKERS
were $5.95 to $8.95
NOW $2.85 to $4.85

FILENE'S enlarged Wellesley Shop

Board Hires Talent Scout To Hunt Dean

Trustees Hire Professional To Track Down Candidate For Vacant Deanship

WELLESLEY, Mass., March 18 —At the regular March meeting of the Wellesley College Board of Trustees, held this morning in the solarium of the Large Lowe Davenport Swimming Pool, it was announced that the country's fifth greatest industry has been called upon to rescue the college from an impending academic crisis. Ever since the motion picture industry discovered an undisputable "Scarlett O'Hara," Hollywood talent scouts have received nationwide acclaim. Recognizing the potentialities of this unique group, the trustees have placed under contract a Grade-A talent scout to aid them in terminating a fifteen-month's search for a suitable tenant for Oakwoods. The scout, Mr. Peter Prymore of Beverly Hills, California, was employed only after it was ascertained that by hiring talent scout Jimmy Roosevelt the Board might precipitate a rift in the Academic Council.

Deanna for Dean?

Arriving in Wellesley early this morning, Mr. Prymore appeared before the Board with a preliminary report. A brief survey of academic qualifications narrowed his immediate field to three possible candidates: Tyrone Power, Deanna Durbin, and an assistant professor from Saskatchewan Military Institute. Scout Prymore pointed out that the latter was particularly suited to the deanship because of his equestrian prowess.

As was to be expected, none of the candidates could qualify. Mr. Power and the Saskatchewan pedagogue were automatically eliminated since the prospect of Oakwoods as bachelor's quarters would place an unfortunate premium on rooms in Davis Hall. Although Miss Durbin would photograph exceptionally well for Legenda purposes Acting Dean Wiltsoon refuses to keep on "Acting" until Deanna grows up.

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 1)

Jetspray Gurgles Gleefully Over Family Tree of Wellesley Buildings

Being right in the swim of things, your very own reporter thought it would prove of current interest to Wellesley students to receive first hand information as to the architecture of the new Recreation Building. With this idea, she mounted the steps of the Farnsworth Art Museum and soon found herself closeted with Mr. T. Buckwater Jetspray, who began in his usual liquid tone:

"The flowing harmony of the campus architecture into which the Recreation Building blends, can best be appreciated by seeing the building as a member of the Wellesley architectural family. Hypothetically," Jetspray continued, "we may call Green Hall the father, Farnsworth the mother, and the Tower Court group their offspring. Pendleton Hall is Tower's first cousin, Stone-Davis its cousin twice removed. As for Norumbega and Maison Crawford," at this point the speaker showed some slight embarrassment, "we just don't talk about that." The Quadrangle he roughly designated as the great uncle, Billings as ancestor, and Sage the family infant.

Your reporter was by this time a bit puzzled as to the place of the Recreation Building in the family tree. This, however, did not ruffle Jetspray's smooth surface. "The long-awaited addition to the family, he continued, his face now flooded with pleasure, "represents a mixture of all the family strains into one harmonious whole."

The main body, to his own joy, Jetspray confided, is vaguely modern. As a concession to Shampoo Der Nersessian, twin projections, recalling minarets, jut out of the ends of the squash court roof. A. Delaware Robinson rejoices in the openable roof or atrium effect in the classic style, while a few gargoyles plastered on the walls seem to have been destined as a sop to Arnold Icecooler.

"In short," the professor concluded, gurgling with glee, "the new Recreation Building, architecturally speaking, has poured oil on troubled waters."

ment, wailed the Alma Mater twice, and, with a slow shiver, began to poison the air with tradition. Suddenly there came the whir of a motor boat, and an eerie shriek that can only be translated for human ears as "Catch, two-three" split the eardrums of the Oozers. "Zounds," cried Flora Goomis, "'tis the ghost of Hicky Shark," as she collapsed into the open pages of King Arthur.

Binding on his gas mask and the shield of the Large Lowe Davenport Pool to protect himself from the perils of womanly Wellesley, Gitchygoonian began to dig frantically through three or four stratas of geologic sediment. On the layer marked 1938 sat two lovers, shaded by a battered sign reading "Soupele Point—do not feed the

ENTRANCE FEET

1. Enter by one of three doors, or all three if you can't.
2. Check card of admission to classes, Art notes, and chewing gum with Matron.
3. Return to Matron with card of approval which specifies immunity from lordosis, scoliosis, and fallen arches.
4. Reveal approximate size and receive sterilized suit of Wellesley Blue of approximate size.
5. Find undressing room for ladies if you are a lady and vice versa if not.
6. Choose favorite cubby hole and shriek, "I was here first!" to no matter who is there.
7. Undress and put on white cap and Wright and Ditson sandals.
8. Take lukewarm shower.
9. Take cold shower.
10. Take bath. (Optional)
11. Take three Giant Steps.
12. May I?
13. Leap into clean sterilized suit. Don't forget to button the wrists.
14. Walk down corridor keeping carefully to right.
15. Leave sandals in corridor, toes to wall, straps placed diagonally across soles.
16. Attach water wings carefully.
17. Walk through foot bath if feet are athletic, or if you are athletic leap it.
18. And there you are.
19. Return to dressing room to remove wrist watch.

Editors of a well-known college weekly as they appeared at the informal dedication at the Large Lowe Davenport Swimming Pool. Their private swimming meet, held several days before the pool was filled, attests to the wide range of recreational facilities the pool affords.

Gitchygoonian Unearths Oozy Phantoms of Faculty Sunk in Waban's Puddle of Tradition

swains!" Gitchygoonian immediately recognized them as Edith Listerina Swanson and Lamb Always Eelie in a purple mooded, and, with efficient editorial style, translated them into ten or twelve pages of snappy shorthand.

Wordsworth a la Byzantine

Nearby sat old Father Waban, enthroned in a graceful shell with eight antennae, (or oars) swearing quietly to himself. Exclusive to the OOZE (Adv't) he moaned, "Gol dang it, I Jess cain't keep up with that new swimming hole!" On his way again, Gitchygoonian stumbled over a pond lily on which were seated W. Salamander Scrampbell and Martha Whale Snackford devouring leaves of Wordsworth with a garnish of Byzantine mosaic.

Rounding the corners of a shipwrecked ice skate, the Oozers fell upon the Waban Wombats, led by Mr. Tabum S. Foams, warming up for a big league game with the

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 5)

Lady Opens College Pool At Long Last

W. C. T. U. Leader Reveals Her Addiction To Water By Christening New Pool

Special Dissociated Press Dispatch

WELLESLEY, Mass., March 17 —The breaking of a bottle of tinted Lake Waban water over the edge of a blue tile pool marked the formal dedication here, tonight, of the Large Lowe Davenport Swimming Pool, latest addition to the Wellesley College Campus. Tonight's program, which climaxed seventeen days of unabated ceremonies, attracted an audience of thousands: students, alumna, faculty, potential Freshmen, and a reporter from the Wellesley Ledger.

Several weeks ago, the original plan for a three-day dedication bout was abandoned when members of the Peace Council and the College Government sub-committee on Social Schedule decided that the unparalleled importance of the event warranted a prolonged celebration. Preliminary activities, that commenced March first, have included classes in swimming, diving, and hair-setting, and an open forum on "The Non-academic Values of Sunbathing."

Ah, College Hall

Tonight's ceremonies, doubly commemorative since today marks the twenty-fifth birthday of the first College Hall Fire anecdote, began with an academic procession that skied down Norumbega Hill to the site of the new building. A Salvation Army band accompanied the skiers, whose American-made Japanese lanterns made a colorful trail across the Alumnae Hall parking space.

The feature of the evening was the long-anticipated dedication address by Mrs. J. Volstead Dryer (Tessie Waterhury '17), Wellesley-educated President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Attracted by her alma mater's current addiction to water, Mrs. Dryer volunteered her services for the evening and was heartily acclaimed by a cheering throng, led

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 5)

Puzzling Heavings of Pool Cause Investigation of Tides of March

In an official blue-slip communique, issued early this morning, Sooth Telliot warned members of the OOZE Board to "Beware the Tides of March." "Skinny students of Sea-grade posture are urged," she said, "to put on their blubber for protection against the slithery sleet and rising tides."

Sooth Telliot Warns

Sooth Telliot's admonition was occasioned by bathospheric reactions in the swimming pool which have caused alarm throughout the entire campus. Miss Squizzle Flowell, Custodian of the Blue (matching if-wet) Tiles, reported that following the exodus of alumnae from the Dedication ceremonies, the pool writhed itself into a vortex of current.

Later analysis of the spray particles by Microscope Kaan revealed that salt particles had somehow entered the pool, and reacting with the super-sensitive eye lotion in the water, was throwing off great clouds of spray. Squizzle Flowell got out her Hygiene Red Book, edited by Meredith & Co. and decided that the brine in the pool had been caused by the tears of the Alumnae, gathered at the pool's edge for the dedication. With soft and saline reverence for this culmination of their hopes and dreams, they had wept.

Dipper Duncan Stars

It was Big Dipper Duncan, however, who became the Star of the morning.

"Things have come to a scorching past," he said. "The hour of the swimming pool dedication coincides precisely with the time of College Hall fire. The beat waves which emanated from the hoty-totsies of 1914 are still undulating in the ether."

When Hosea Hy-Hat, standing near Dipper Duncan, heard the heat wave theory, he broke his Golden Silence to shed new light on the annual appearance of Heat Waves about March 17. "Ever since the memorable igniting of the buildings in 1914, Wellesley has never been allowed to forget the burning issue. In fact, rumor

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 2)

EDITORIAL STAFF

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO • BOSTON • LOS ANGELES • SAN FRANCISCO

1938 Member 1939
Associated Collegiate Press

Distributor of Collegiate Digest

SEASEAL KER PLUNKE

Editor-in-Grief

T. H. PALE SPLOTTER

G'WAN GOSCREAM

LOUEEZ (ERIEL) PETTIBONE SNIFF

Assinine Editors

EATETH A. SNAIL

News Commentateher

MELEN DARLINGSOUSE

Heart Hints Editor

DONALD DUCK

Drammer Critic

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER

Grammer Critic

AMMA DUNKINGHER

TAKA PILLEY

Swim Sorrespondents

ELLA KEEPS BITING

RAINY DE MESSY HAIR

Tasty Tid Bit Editors

FLORA GOOMIS

Staff Footographer

JOSEPH GEE GITCHYGOMIAN

Official Sloop

BOUNCING BALL

A. A. Wetpresentative

Novel Course Promotes

Daring Diamond Derby

We always knew the belles had a "ring" to them, and the score of four to two in the Diamond Derby now taking place in the Endless Proposition 304 classes proves this as a fact. Miss Q. Pid Peekins' class of finger flashing females has a double lead over Miss V. Nus Standglaring's bevy of frenzied fiancées. There is a movement on feet to change the course to the Marriage Course, and to limit its subject matter to the budget rather than Universals.

When questioned, Miss Q. Pid Peekins modestly deprecated her part in the derby, stating, "I supply only the method. The students continue according to their own ways of research and initiative." Miss V. Nus Standglaring declared hopefully, "Yes, we are losing, but we have prospects."

"Why did I accept John?" repeated a star (sapphire) member of Q. Pid's class, "Oh, because he made such an appeal to my stream of consciousness."

The ring-leader in V. Nus Standglaring's class declared it was all for the sake of experience with her. She is putting HIM in her Novel, of which the first chapter, entitled Slip To The Young, is being published by Press Board.

"So sorry—I can't talk to you now," airily announced another fiancée, waving a stony hand at the reported. "You see—I have an engagement!"

Trustees Hire Scout to Hunt for New Dean

(Continued from Page 3, Col. 1)

Mr. Prymore's further suggestion that the Board kill two birds with one appointment by electing a member of the Senior class and thereby throwing a boon to the Personnel Bureau, was immediately rejected. The Board considers it an unnecessary risk to install in a responsible position any recent victim of the General Examination.

Nationwide Questionnaire

It was then voted that Mr. Prymore be granted a moderate sum to conduct a nationwide deanhunt, of which the first step will be a questionnaire circulated to 30,000 Ph. D's. The proposed questionnaire, entitled "What kind of an education will you give Wellesley?" promises edifying results. Commencing Monday, March 20, scout Prymore, disguised as a staff writer for The American Scholar, will frequent the haunts of potential deans. After three months of

Apple-Sellers Veer

From A. A. To Relief

The Sooth Telliot campaign of last November, in which members of the Department of Hygiene and Physical Education were aided in their house-to-house canvass by Harvard faculty, brought to a close A. A.'s historic apple-selling activities for the benefit of the swimming pool. It is, of course, a well-known fact that this famous series of campaigns was begun long ago by the first A. A. representative, one Eve, living in the Freshman house, Eden.

In later years, A. A. representatives, now organized and carrying their wares in bags, played vital roles in civilization while raising funds for the pool. History to the contrary, your reporter cites the race of Atalanta, in which the golden apples were not thrown in her path by her rival, but had fallen from the bag of a spectator, an A. A. apple saleswoman.

Although William Schroeder Tell, famous marksman and ancestor of Wellesley's noted archery instructor, shot the apple from his son's head, it must be confessed by posterity that this was merely a publicity stunt to attract consumer interest to the apple market. In one dark spot of history, however, apple-selling underwent a decline due to the insidious propaganda of the sellers of milk and ice cream, who rumored (falsely, of course) that Snow White had been poisoned by a swimming pool apple. Counter-propaganda by Dr. de Life as to the health-giving attributes of apples soon remedied the situation, and apple-selling continued as Wellesley's biggest industry until the pool was built. Now will Wellesley face an unemployment problem?

Seething Pool Sets College In Turmoil

(Continued from Page 3, Col. 5)

bad it that the Freshman class, always Red in their tendencies, was planning a conflagration to end all conflagrations. They would not let another college generation pass without a new hotspot. Something had to be done," he paused dramatically, "so the Alumnae contributed the money for the Swimming Pool to serve as a Reservoir against possible destruction by uncontrollable fires. Nothing must impair the prestige of the College Hall Fire."

T Blaze Rocketer Thinks

Mr. Thomas Blaze Rocketer came dashing from the cloud of thought on which he was standing nearby, "And as for the heavings, in the pool—those were mere manifestations of the ultimate truths—there are, I have discovered, small tubular pipes running in an underground system from the swimming pool to outlets at every house. The pool, trained to know the danger spot of March 17, was leaving preparatory to sending out little jets of water. Should the atmosphere be illumined by incendiary tactics—the pool will be ready to act."

conferences, convocations, adult institutes, academic conventions, and Wellesley Club meetings Mr. Prymore promises to produce the ideal candidate or a reasonably accurate facsimile thereof.

When questioned as to the prospect of a man in the deanship, members of the Board of Trustees twiddled their watch chains and whispered "Maybe, perhaps!" The step would be a revolutionary one, but even the Oakwoods difficulty could be surmounted should Mr. Prymore unearth a candidate with outstanding possibilities. In addition to the minimum requirement of three academic degrees and five years' experience in the receiving line, all applicants must demonstrate a reading knowledge of morning chapel selections.

Ode to an Epidemic

(Or How to Answer a Questionnaire)

We're tired of filling out questionnaires.

"Why is a teacher?" and "What is a bug?"

Please send all inquisitors back to their lairs

We make all our travels on the living room rug.

As students of serious, noble intentions

We're flatly refusing to learn how to dance.

The commonest subject that anyone mentions

Is the function and method of public finance.

To Washington politics we devote each vacation.

With illegal gains Senate pockets we line

In fond hopes of obtaining relief legislation

Forbidding exams under penalty fine.

We'd end the suppression of freedom of action

By prohibiting all forms of late registration,

Cutting papers and quizzes to only a fraction

For the good of us all and the sake of the Nation.

Our answers are palpably set forth herein:

We don't like cold creams nor elegant hashes;

We're not wearing stockings or getting too thin;

Midyears will put us in sack cloth and ashes.

We never read newspapers or style magazines;

We cannot distinguish a goon from a drip.

As to recreation—we don't know what it means.

Our chief aim in life is a pink or blue slip.

If more information is what you desire

From Wellesley on private and personal affairs,

The first thing to do is to go and inquire

For a chance to distribute a few questionnaires.

TEMPERANCE LEADER CHRISTENS NEW POOL

(Continued from Page 3, Col. 5)

by the College Lecture Committee. "This should be the biggest break in Wellesley history!" tittered Mrs. Dryer as President Mildewed Melon Snackatsea presented her with a beribboned flask of H₂O. After she had smashed the gilt-covered flask of aqua pura over the edge of the pool, and the plaudits of the crowd faded to a hoarse roar, the distinguished alumna took her place on the extreme end of the high diving board and delivered an eighty-minute address on "The Place of Swimming in the Liberal Arts College." (The complete text of Mrs. Dryer's address will be found on page 11, col. 3)

China Sends Waterwings

As the applause subsided, a sudden gasp rippled over the crowd. So intent had they been on Mrs. Dryer's timely admonitions that not one spectator realized that the China Clipper was rocking lightly on the surface of the pool. Skimming in through an air-conditioning vent, the Clipper had nosed silently down to the water, thanks to the completely sound-proof ceiling construction. Stepping out on a pontoon, the pilot tossed a huge package in the general direction of President Snackatsea. Four representatives of Press Board fell on it so quickly that it was several minutes before the audience realized that there was Mme. Hang by-Heck's long-awaited gift.

Some months previous, Mme.

2939's Glimpse of Us

A non-statistical cross-section of Wellesley life is being preserved for posterity in the cornerstone of the Large Lowe Davenport Swimming Pool. Scientifically protected by a series of elaborate burglar alarms, the historic receptacle will rest untouched during a thousand years of Wellesley history. At the end of that time, according to the statement made by a high authority in swimming pool circles, the hermetically-sealed storage box will be disinterred for the formal ceremonies of March 17, 2939. On that date at twelve o'clock noon, the official red tape with which the box is sealed will break automatically, and the contents of the box be revealed.

As a courtesy to those readers unable to attend the 2939 ceremonies, OOOZE (Adv't) is releasing a confidential inventory of the historical data enclosed in the stone. In addition to pictures of President Snackatsea, President Roosevelt, ex-Captain Law Rents Smith of the Faculty Baseball Team, and an unidentified photograph from the 1911 Portrait Directory, the box contains:

1. Two pages from the Bible found in the cornerstone of College Hall.
2. A carbon-tetrachloride fire extinguisher used in the College Hall fire March 17, 1914.
3. Two copies of the July Fourth edition of the Wellesley College Ooze. (Adv't)
4. An unidentified snapshot bearing the notation "Joe and Ted."
5. President Snackatsea's 1938 license plates. (Now you know!)
6. A tail-feather, formerly the property of Dean Wiltsoon's parrot.
7. Another picture of President Snackatsea.
8. A coke bottle.

Professors Plant Lilies to Hide

Shyest Swimmers in Blue-tiled Pool

"All play and no work makes us a bright group!" chanted the Committee for the Further Furtherance of Faculty Fun to a goggle-eyes OOOZE (Adv't) reporter. The motto sounded reasonable, so off she hied, logically, to that monstrous magnet of magnificent merriment, the Large Lowe Davenport Swimming Pool.

Reporter Says "Boo"

Downstairs in the squash courts all was dark and quiet. The reporter recognized a member of the Geology Department and reflected fleetingly that he should be made to take English Composition 102 to learn how to express himself more colorfully. When she recalled her thoughts, he was ranting more successfully, "Just bow do you suppose any advance in geological scholarship can be made with such interruption? Young woman, I was about to re-check a revolutionary discovery, to divulge a scientific milestone, the wonder of the century! This rock, right here on Wellesley's campus contains at least four grains of muscovite! Now, my girl get out—go do something—anything but soil this remarkable stone. Why don't you go—go—go fry an egg?"

Mamselle Beats Eggs

The reporter decided this eloquence was better—maybe there'd be an egg in that nice model kitchenette up by the main card-room. And she could be alone for a minute. This time she looked before entering and was glad she did.

Through the crack she could see Ma'mselle He-Doth-Melt-Her flourishing an egg-beater in one hand and a rolling pin in the other. She wore a big white apron and was saying something while she waved her arms. "Aha, he weel say zat hees mawther, she cook zee best pies, eh? Eh bien, I weel show heem, I weel. Now ware ees eet zat zee eggs go—zee eggs, zee eggs?" She started running in circles around the room, so the reporter quickly closed the door and ran breathlessly to the pool. Perhaps there'd be some normal recreation there.

That's funny—no one in swimming. Only a group of fully clothed people standing at the far end, throwing little green bulbs with funny stem-like things into the pool. Vandalism, pure vandalism, she thought. As she approached the group haughtily, one pointed at her and cried, "Oh, goodie, here's one now." Immediately the reporter was surrounded by a swarm of enthusiastic talkers, all exclaiming at once

Pond Lilies Camouflage

"Pond lilies, my dear, that once you've jumped in, all your maidenly shyness may be hidden by our lovely flowers!"

"Those wicked sleeveless tank suits of yours, positively revealing!"

"Beautiful, large, concealing plants!"

The reporter tumbled into the pool, notebook and all. It was nice and lonesome!

Hang (class of 1917), Wellesley-educated writer, soldier, honorary class-member and stateswoman extraordinary, had sent a special swimming pool gift to the college. But complications with the State Department, the War Department, the C. I. O., and the Committee on the Language Reading Requirement delayed its arrival until tonight. The gift, 2000 pairs of Chinese silk waterwings, is Mme. Hang by-Heck's personal present to her Wellesley friends. Made up in all the various shades commonly designated as "Wellesley blue", the wings are tastefully monogrammed in brilliant gold characters. Translated, the figures read "Not to be ministers, but to be minister's wives," the Chinese equivalent of the college motto. President Snackatsea presented the first pair of wings to Miss Virginia Tide Eddy, directing her to deposit them in the college archives along with the fragments of the now-historic water-bottle.

The ceremonies over, the audience rose for the singing of Alma Mater, and Thirty Years is a Mighty Long Time, John, a special request of the Swimming Pool Fund Committee.

Gitchygoomian Pools

At Wailing Tradition

(Continued from Page 3, Col. 4)

Newtonville Newts. Gitchygoomian ran quickly into the backfield, returning stray balls and symphonies to Wayward Pea Greene who whipped down the home stretch to tie the score at 206. When Miss Wiltsoon's bloodhound began to unravel the Turkish afghan on which Miss Hornett Spiller lay crooning dutes to herself, Gitchygoomian thought it was a good time to get out. Heaving a loud pooh at tradition, he extricated himself from the historic puddle, waved at the stepswingers, and sprinted up to the pool for a quick one before supper!

Wellesley Sets Styles For Early Sportswear

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 4)

breeches, angora turbans, and wool and tinsel sweaters.

Miss Wellesley 1939 wears a ski suit as a matter of course; it's the universal winter costume. Angora mittens fuzz in the wintry air, or gayly embroidered imported gloves keep her hands warm as she makes a snowman. An infinitesimal bawuska keeps her unruly curls in place—or else she braves the open bareheaded, save for the comfort of furry earmuffs.

The President On Skis

"It must have been about twenty years ago that I last fell on skis," said President McAfee, mustering her thoughts on the subject for the benefit of the Wellesley NEWS. But skiing in those days was not the front page story that it is now.

Like other Vassar students, Mildred McAfee confined her skiing to the back hills of the campus. It wasn't that they preferred the privacy of the campus hills to the open publicity of popular mountain trails and crowded resorts; mountain trails and ski trains just didn't exist.

Since her undergraduate days President McAfee has watched the growth of the sport with interest, although confessing that she still doesn't understand quite how it's done. One thing she agreed hasn't changed—it's still just as hard to keep standing up!

School at St. Anton. Benna Rybizka, who now teaches the Schneider technique at North Conway and Jackson, N. H., has the gift of simple and clear exposition. His advice and directions are logical and understandable.

The book has a thoroughness which gives it authority. Mr. Rybizka devotes equal attention to the inexperienced manoeuvres of the beginner and the Arlberg crouch of the champion. Starting with a description of the necessary equipment, he discusses walking and climbing, downhill running, and several fundamental exercises. He winds up with two chapters on speed turns, jump turns, and terrain jumps — for the advanced among his readers.

Reading the book, one feels that here is really practical instruction. Mr. Rybizka has no scornful superiority about the unexciting — but still baffling — details of ski wax and harnesses. He has, instead, a friendly sympathy for the beginner, as well as the expert's zeal for perfection, and reverence for a correct mastery of the fundamentals — a point which he emphasizes frequently.

Increasing the book's practicality are the many photographic illustrations, often of the movie "still" type showing exercises in various stages. Also included are several really excellent shots of snow, mountains, and sky in nice arrangement, intended, no doubt, to spur on the discouraged amateur.

Everyone who owns, or has ever wanted to own, a pair of skis should read this book. Whether or not he feels with Mr. Rybizka that "skiing is the best sport I have ever known", he will at least get the thrill of reading something by a man who knows perfectly, and loves, his subject.

E. G. '40

Sausage for Skiers

Suzanne Van Dyke '41, student skiing instructor, has revealed at last the secret of the Swiss skiers over the Americans. It lies, she says, in the quantities of strong red sausage upon which they are brought up, from infancy upwards.

Wellesley College Dep't of Speech Presents RUTH DRAPER

Famous International Artist
ALUMNAE HALL
MON. EVE., FEB. 13

PROGRAM
The Italian Lesson
In County Kerry
Three Breakfasts:
1. The First . . . In the City
2. Fifteen Years Later . . . In the Suburbs
3. After Forty Years . . . On the Farm
A Class in Greek Poise
In a Church in Italy

INVITATION

We have just received a collection of original French Etchings and old Prints. These Etchings are signed by the artists.

THE MARIGOLD GIFT SHOP
81 CENTRAL STREET

DUTCH KLOGS

Clatter, clatter! This cute little trick may get you in Dutch at college, but think of the fun! In Notural, White, Holland Blue, or Dutch Red elk-skin with wooden soles.

$2.98

Clyde's . . . 67A CENTRAL STREET

BIBLIOFILE

Schneider Ski Technique

The Hannes Schneider Ski Technique by Benno Rybizka, Harcourt, Brace and Company, $2.50.

Novices and experts alike will be fascinated by this new book, written by a man who was for seven years an instructor in the famed Hannes Schneider Ski

Whether you are good, fair, or a beginner, you need a good ski—

See Lillian Blake (Munger) agent

Northland Skis and Supplies

YES, someone has wised up the Prof to Good Bass Boots. Just see him skim on those skis with the greatest of ease!

Beginner or expert, you'll find Good Bass Boots give more support than a pillar of learning. They're smart, comfortable, form-fitting too. Leds and lassies alike will find them prudently priced from $6.00 to $14.00. Yes, and you can buy 'em close by. Drop in and see our wide selection.

E. A. Davis & Co.
WELLESLEY

We know what you want, and we have it...

Town Clothes DATE CLOTHES
SPORTS CLOTHES
Glamour clothes

SHOWING AT WELLESLEY
DISPLAY SHOP
Thursday & Friday
Feb. 9th & 10th

Lord & Taylor

Fifth Avenue, New York

Gross Strauss

ALL WOOL

GABARDINE
SKI-SUITS

$18.00

Were $22.95
to $29.95

Smartly Styled,
Excellent Tailoring

19-21 Central St., Wellesley

STAGE

"Of Mice and Men" final weekPLYMOUTH
"Stars in Your Eyes" final weekSHUBERT
"What Every Woman Wants", Francine Larrimore . . . WILBUR
Serkin, Russian pianist. Feb. 5, 3:30SYMPHONY HALL

IN PROSPECT

"Susan and God" with Gertrude Lawrence, opening Feb. 13 for three weeks.

"Five Kings", opening Feb. 20 for two weeks. The fifth Theatre Guild play. An Orson Welles' condensation of Shakespeare's historical dramas, the two parts of "King Henry IV" and "King Henry V." Cast, Orson Welles, Burgess Meredith, John Emery, Robert Speaight.

Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman and dance group. Feb. 10.

Metropolitan Opera, March 16-March 25.

Falstaff, Tristan und Isolde, La Boheme, Lohengrin, Die Walkure, Louise, Aida, Die Meistersinger, Thais, Tannhaeuser, Rigoletto.

WELLESLEY THEATRE TICKET AGENCY

Wellesley Thrift Shop, 34 Church Street, Wellesley

Service agency for all Boston plays and concerts. 25c a ticket.

Open Daily 9 To 5:30

Telephone Wel. 0915

It takes years of spills and practice to slalom around the flags . . . but it only takes one visit to the Slattery Wellesley Shop to assemble your ski-wardrobe, to dress like an expert! Slattery ski-clothes are authentically styled and created . . . we sketch and highlight o sampling!

Slattery's
(Near Wellesley Inn)

Skier Mentions Tyrol, Switzerland, Vermont

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 2)

stead of at the school, the payment of the kurtaxe often gives ski school privileges and the use of public skating rinks.

A year at the University in Switzerland followed Sue's preparatory school work, and she continued to ski there although she did branch out and try the Austrian Tyrol. Reluctantly she admitted that the skiing itself was superior in Austria, but all the while she maintained her loyalty to Switzerland. "In Austria you don't get the life you get there. You must go to Switzerland!"

All-day ski-run

The reporter thought it an excellent idea. She had visions of Sue spending days on end flying down steep mountainsides; but she was to be disillusioned. The procedure, it seems, involves a twenty minute train ride, a couple of hours' walk—which Sue confessed she pretended she liked—and then, when one has reached a height of about 6,000 feet, skiing down all day, not "straight" but "slalom", that is, in a zigzag course marked by flags.

"And how do you get back up the hills?" inquired the green reporter. "Do you herringbone?" She admitted that that was her usual method — except when she was alone. At such times she picks her skis up and carries them.

Here at college Sue finds that her skiing keeps her too busy to permit her going out for other activities; it is she who gives instruction here, and last winter she also made eight week-end trips to Mount Mansfield in Vermont, which boasts "the best skiing in the East." She does manage, however, to go to Chapel every day.

One of her friends, who apparently took the combination of her chapel-going and her desire to ski to mean that she prayed for snow, met Sue after chapel the other day. "Can't you do any better than this?" she moaned, pointing dramatically to the half-inch of snow on the ground. "They blame me for everything," Sue laughed as the reporter took her leave, wishing devoutly that she could gather together enough courage to brave the terrors of Observatory Hill, which must look pretty flat to Sue Van Dyke.

FOR NEWS OF THE WEEK
EVERY WEEK
SEE THE COLLEGE NEWS
BULLETIN BOARD

LOST—A silver charm in the form of a Maltese cross with St. Albans on the front and the initials C.L.H. on the back. If you love your neighbor as yourself please return to Teddy Goldsmith, Beebe.

Faculty Look Forward To Midwinter Sports

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 5)

one big sled." Half laughing, Miss Burger described her first experience on skis. "I used my brother's skis, which were too long for me. Extremely proud of my first success, I tried again. But this time I landed in a brook, and did not know how to get out. After that, I used my own skis."

Mr. Pilley Skates

Mr. John G. Pilley has skated a great deal on Lake Waban this winter. "Skating isn't especially good in England," he remarked. "I learned to skate by falling down while at school in Germany." Mr. Pilley finds it an interesting feature of Lake Waban skating to note the difference between boys and girls in their attitude toward the sport. The chief interest of the boys, it seems to him, is acquiring speed for hockey, whereas the girls, in practicing various and sundry figures, treat the sport as an art.

"I am not expert enough to be an unusually enthusiastic skier," said Miss Harriet L. Clarke. "And I suppose that explains my having skied only once this winter. But I do like the sport." Miss Clarke has accompanied the Outing Club on some of its past trips to New Hampshire and hopes to ski somewhere during the mid-semester vacation. She is an enthusiastic rider, and makes frequent use of the indoor ring when the weather prohibits outdoor riding.

"All I try to do is keep on my feet," exclaimed Miss Helen W. Kaan, when questioned about her skiing adventures this winter. "I've skied several times, and have also skated, though I do nothing fancy, — just forward and backwards and around corners!" According to Miss Kaan, her biggest sports winter was one several years ago when she had to snowshoe to class in her ski-pants, skirt in hand.

While Studying ORANGE JUICE APPLES

WELLESLEY ORANGE MART
Tel. 2297 97 Central St.

DR. PAUL E. EVERETT OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN

Waban Block Wellesley Square
Tel. Wellesley 0300-W

23 CENTRAL STREET Colonial Building - Second Floor Wellesley

Knowing how necessary it is for girls to have someone to care for their Dressmaking and Alterations when in college . . .

I am taking this opportunity of asking you to come in when in need of assistance . . .

ISABELLE STRATTON

HUNGRY ?

Remember the COLLEGE
TEA ROOM
79 Central St.

FOR
CORSAGES CUT FLOWERS PLANTS

RICE'S FLOWER SHOP
95 Central St. Wellesley 0303

All Wool
Gabardine
Ski
Trousers
$5.85

St. Anton Cloth
Wind Breakers
$5.85

and you will enjoy a visit to our shop—specializing in

HOSIERY - GLOVES
SPORTSWEAR - DRESSES
UNDERWEAR - CORSETS
and BRAS.

Touraine

60 Central St.

Boston - Brookline - Cambridge

DR. STANLEY E. HALL
DENTIST
Waban Blk. Wellesley Square
Tel. Wel. 0566-W

DWIGHT R. CLEMENT
DENTIST
Room No. 8 Morton Block
572 Washington Street
(over Seiler's)
Wellesley Sq. Wel. 1018

GRAHAM EMPLOYMENT
SERVICE
(over Seiler's)
Reliable Help Furnished
572 Wash. St. Wel. 2098

The RIGHT COMBINATION is Chesterfield

when you're bidding for More Smoking Pleasure

By combining (blending together) the right kinds of mild, ripe American and aromatic Turkish tobaccos, Chesterfield brings out all their fine smoking qualities and gives you a cigarette that's outstanding for mildness... for aroma... for taste.

When you try them you will know why Chesterfields give millions of men and women more smoking pleasure . . .
why THEY SATISFY

Chesterfield

...the blend that can't be copied
...the RIGHT COMBINATION of the world's best cigarette tobaccos

The colorful P. HAL SIMS, master bridge authority and player says, "It's the right combination of keen bidding and skillful play of the hands that takes the tricks".